Recipes.

Veal and Ham Pie—Cut one and a half pounds of veal into very thin slices and also half pound of ham. Mix on a plate one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, half a teaspoonful of powdered herbs, one of grated lemon rind, and a few grains of cayenne. Roll in this seasoning each piece of veal and ham and lay in a pudding dish with two hard-boiled eggs cut in slices. Fill up the dish with water, lace the edge cover and decorate with pastry, and bake in a hot oven for one and a half hours. After pastry has risen cool the temperature or the meat will be tough.

Steamed Cocoa Custards—One pint of moderately strong cocoa, made with milk, and quite sweet. Let stand until slightly cooled. Beat together the yolks of five and whites of three eggs, putting aside the two remaining whites. Blend a portion of the cocoa with the eggs, then mix all together. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla and pour into custard cups. Stand in a pan of hot water at the side of the fire and cook gently until firm in the center. Stand aside until cold, and before serving heap on each cup a spoonful of egg meringue with the whites.

TRACES PROGRESS OF AIRSHIP.

John W. Mitchell Before Washington Society of Engineers.
John Walter Mitchell, a Washington newspaper man, delivered an illustrated lecture on the development of aviation before the Washington Society of Engineers at Baughner's last night.
He traced the progress of the flying machine from the time of the gas balloon to the present improved type of aeroplane and showed many interesting views of each type. Among the best pictures were those of the trial flights of the Wright brothers' machine at Fort Myer.

MASONS HEAR BIRD LECTURE.

Prof. Henry Oldys Gives Imitations and Describes Habitats.
Prof. Henry Oldys, of Smithsonian Institution, gave an interesting lecture on birds at a meeting of National Lodge, No. 12, F. A. A. M., in new Masonic Temple, last night.
He gave some excellent imitations and described the habits of various birds.

The D. A. R., and her sister, former President General Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, are members. Mrs. Haney is a first cousin of the distinguished woman, and is herself distinguished, in that she was the first woman professor in an Illinois college.

She was a professor of languages for many years. She is now an octogenarian and made the trip from Chicago to see a woman's congress presided over by a woman, and her relative, Mrs. Haney, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Haney, of the latter's sister, Mrs. James H. Draper. They will return to Chicago to-morrow.

Members of the D. A. R. congress were the guests in whose honor the members of the Congressional Club entertained at a reception yesterday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock. The club rooms were beautifully decorated with dogwood blossoms, American Beauty roses, and lilacs. Mrs. Dilliver, chairman of the reception committee, was assisted in receiving by other members of the club, who are also members of the D. A. R. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Fairchild.

Mrs. Murray Crane, Mrs. J. P. Dilliver, Mrs. A. W. Gregg, and Mrs. George W. Fairchild will receive the guests at the dance at the Congressional Club this evening. The floor committee is composed of Mrs. Huntington Wilson, Mrs. Henry A. Cooper, Mrs. William P. Boardman, Mrs. Jack Beall, and Mrs. Ollie M. James.

Miss Elizabeth Goodwin and Lieut. Rescoe P. Dillen, U. S. N., will be married to-day at St. John's Episcopal Church. Lieut. Dillen entertained his best man, Lieut. Walter H. Smead, U. S. N., and his ushers, Lieut. H. T. Winston, Lieut. George W. Steele, Jr., Paymaster Charles E. Parsons, Lieut. Richard P. McCullough, Lieut. Albert Church, and Ensign Andrew S. Hickey, at dinner last evening. Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding are Mrs. Dillen, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Armstrong, of Indianapolis; the Misses Goodwin, of Middletown, Conn.; Miss Reita Preston, of Baltimore; Dr. William Lockwood, Dr. Frank Anderson, U. S. N.; Mrs. Henry F. Price, wife of Lieut. Commander Price, of the Delaware, to which Lieut. Dillen is attached, came from Norfolk, and Mrs. Charles G. Harris from Richmond.

Mrs. W. A. McConnell, of Columbus, Ohio, is the guest of her cousins, the Misses Thomas, of K street.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Fay announce the engagement of their daughter Frances to Mr. Fred Campbell Clark. The wedding will be witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The marriage is announced of Miss Laura Elizabeth Keys and Mr. George Leyburn Leese. The ceremony took place Saturday evening at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. H. Watson Leese, in K street. Rev. Dr. Donald C. MacLeod officiated. Owing to the recent death of Mr. Leese's father, the marriage was a quiet one.

Mrs. Harrison Dodge is in Washington two weeks before departing for Port Des Moines to visit her daughter, Mrs. Rodman Butler. Miss Mollie Dodge, who is now in Italy, will soon travel in France.

Miss Ida Hill Bowie has returned to her home in Willard street from a visit to Miss Kathryn Gambrell, at the latter's home in Laurel. Miss Gambrell is a niece of the late Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, and is a famous beauty in the State. Miss Gambrell has postponed her visit here, which she was to make as Miss Bowie's guest, owing to the illness of her mother, a sister of the late Senator.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lovett, of Anderson, Ind., are at the Willard. Mrs. Lovett is regent of Kithwenund Chapter, D. A. R., organized by her two years ago.

They have been entertained considerably since they arrived. Last night they were the guests of honor at a dinner given by Representative and Mrs. Adair at Congress Hall. On Sunday night they were entertained at dinner by the Attorney General and Mrs. Wickersham, and to-morrow night Representative and Mrs. Cullip will be the hosts. Mrs. Lovett is the daughter of the late Will Cunnback, of Greensburg, Ind., one of the best-known politicians of the State.

Frau Emil Hugli, of Bern, Switzerland, formerly Miss Ethel Theresa Camp, of Washington, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Camp, 1412 Euclid street northwest. Frau Hugli has come from Switzerland at the invitation of the Washington Choral Society, to sing at their final concert next week.

Increase in membership and activity of the Christ Child Society is shown in the nineteenth annual report, made public yesterday. One hundred new members have been enrolled, and 180 children have been clothed.

MISS GOULD BRIDE OF A. J. DREXEL, JR.

Miss Edith Gould, a sister of the bride, and Miss Edith Mackay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mackay. The bridesmaids were pink and white frocks, with blue sashes. Their straw hats matched their gowns, and they carried gilt baskets of pink carnations.

The maid of honor wore a gown of pink satin. The flower girls were in pink and white frocks, with blue sashes and straw hats to match. They carried gilt baskets of pink carnations.

Mrs. Drexel was accompanied by F. Armstrong Drexel, his brother, who was best man. The ushers were Viscount Maitland, Nowell Griffith, William Rhineland Stuart, Jr., Julius W. Noyes, Craig Biddle, and John Fell, of Philadelphia, and Jay and Kingston Gould, brothers of the bride. Their gold pins, set with diamonds and bearing the monogram "D. and G.," were presents from the bridegroom.

The rolling tones of Martin's wedding procession, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," drew the bride and her father up the aisle between the floral torches. At the altar they were met by Mr. Drexel and his party. George J. Gould gave his daughter in marriage, and the Bishop of New Jersey wedded them. The reception followed.

Mrs. Drexel passed down the aisle on the arm of her husband quite self-possessed and smiling brightly at her friends among the guests. Occasionally she nodded happily. They entered an automobile around which a crowd was densely jammed, and were driven to George A. Gould's home at 87 Fifth avenue, where the reception followed.

The hall and rooms were decorated luxuriously with white roses, spring flowers, and smilax. Over the landing of the grand staircase in the hall was an arch of forsythia, one of the earliest of spring blossoms. The salon on the first floor displayed masses of pink and white roses. The large apartment on the third floor, where the reception was held, was decorated with calla lilies and pink and white apple blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel received in the ballroom on the second floor, where congratulations were showered upon them.

Waltz Dedicated to Bride.

Nathan Franko's orchestra played during the reception. When the bride party arrived, the orchestra played a waltz which Mr. Franko wrote and dedicated to the bride, "The Marjorie." When Mr. and Mrs. Drexel returned to the ballroom, the waltz was rendered a second time.

The guests had an opportunity to see the presents which Mr. and Mrs. Drexel had received. The most notable of all the gifts was naturally not on exhibition. It was the house at 1015 Fifth avenue, which George J. Gould gave his daughter, and which will be ready for occupancy in the autumn.

Mr. Gould gave his daughter also a diamond ring. Mrs. Drexel received a corsage ornament of diamonds and chain of pearls and diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel presented them with two chests of silver.

From Miss Helen Gould the bride received a brooch of diamonds and pearls.

A collar of pearls was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould.

Howard Gould gave the bride a handsome silver punch bowl.

Many Other Presents.

Other presents included a gold and platinum purse, from Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish; a pearl scarf pin for the groom, from Mrs. James Henry Smith; a diamond bracelet, from Frank Gould; a silver gilt tea set, from the brothers and sisters of the bride; a diamond brooch, set in blue enamel, from Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Alexander; a black pearl ring for the bride, from the Duchess de Talleyrand Perigord; an enamel clock which strikes the minutes, from Mrs. Vanderbilt; a blue enamel clock, from Lady Paget; an antique clock, from Mrs. George W. Childs; an old English silver basket, from the employees of the Gould household; a large antique silver vase, from Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer; a bronze statue, from Daniel Miller; a silver vase, from Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Alexander; a dozen gold plates, from Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff; a silver dish, from Col. John Jacob Astor; a clock, from Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt; a mirror with a silver frame, from Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt; six silver candlesticks, from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Drexel.

Grand Wedding Cake.

Almost as interesting as the presents, to many of the guests, was the wedding cake, a triumph of the baker's skill. It was a fruit cake with white icing and crystallized candy decorations. Bits of cake were given in gift boxes to young Mrs. Drexel's friends. Mr. and Mrs. Drexel left at 8:15 o'clock to-night to begin their honeymoon. The bride's going-away gown was of lavender cloth, with hat to match. They traveled on George J. Gould's private car "Atlantis" to Kingston, where their car was transferred to a train that took them to Ulster. They will spend their honeymoon in the Catskills.

Afterward they will go to England to attend the wedding of Mr. Drexel's sister Margaretta and Viscount Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, sr., Miss Drexel, and Viscount Maitland will be passengers on the Lusitania, which sails for England to-morrow.

MRS. TAFT HEARS LECTURE.

Miss Janet Richards Describes Oberammergau at National.

Miss Janet Richards lectured at the National Theater yesterday afternoon on the Passion Play of Oberammergau. Mrs. Taft was present as the guest of Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

This being the year for the decennial presentation of this religious drama, many who expect to visit Oberammergau this summer were interested in the story of the play, the place, and the people, as told by Miss Richards, who has visited Oberammergau several times.

The lecture was illustrated by 15 views made from pictures bought by Miss Richards in Oberammergau, and is an accurate story of the famous production.

The proceeds of the lecture will be divided between the woman's welfare work of the National Civic Federation and the Vacation House of the Young Women's Christian Association. Credit for the success of the affair is largely due to Miss Schroeder, the chairman of the committee.

Miss Richards will attend the play, which is to be given July 27.

MANY VALUABLE HINTS.

Isaac Gans Delivers an Address Filled with Practical Advice.

At a meeting arranged by Col. A. E. Randle, president of the United States Realty Company, Mr. Gans responded to an invitation to address the officers, office force, and salesmen connected with the United States Realty Company, at their main offices, last night, at Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh street. Mr. Gans was introduced to those present by U. S. C. Brothers, vice president of the United States Realty Company.

Mr. Gans directed his remarks principally to the sales force, who are now exploiting and offering to the public the sale of property in the new subdivision known as Randle Highlands.

Mr. Gans gave an interesting account of the growth and prosperity of the greatest capitals of the world, and cited the growth and possibilities of Washington, the smallest of the capital cities, and destined in not so many years to count a population of 1,000,000 or more people.

Mr. Gans spoke interestingly and from experience as to the science of salesmanship and the confidence a man must have in Washington, which presents an unusual opportunity for the home builder as well as the man seeking profitable investment in real estate.

Among those present were O. C. Brothers, Jr., N. B. Robinson, Warren A. Cameron, Walter R. Klotz, Johnny W. Wyatt, A. L. Martin, John E. McDonough, W. E. Hardell, C. B. Hilliard, Burton G. Smith, C. M. Jenkins, C. N. Farr, G. G. Stimpson, A. MacA. Washburn, J. Henry Brown, and Byron W. Orr.
